If you received a new eReader, smartphone, or tablet this holiday season, you should know that your library will be a fantastic resource once the wrapping paper has come off.

We here at the Garfield County Libraries realize that these are very fun, very powerful devices. We have the content you want, along with the staff and programs to familiarize you with how to use our services on your new device.

For example, if you received a new Kindle, Nook, or other eReader, we have eBooks available for checkout through our OverDrive database. You just need a Garfield County library card number to get started. OverDrive has a Help menu that will take you to instructions (which are specific to your device) on how to download a book. In January, the Gordon Cooper, New Castle, and Rifle Branch Libraries will be hosting programs specifically designed to help anyone learn how to do this. There are also friendly, helpful staff members throughout the county who can assist you if you call or come in.

If you got a smartphone or tablet for Christmas, you'll also find the library to be a great source of content and help. You still have access to OverDrive and all the items mentioned above. Plus, smartphones and tablets such as the iPad have apps specifically designed to make it quick and easy to download and read eBooks on the go.

From a tablet you will also have full internet capabilities and can access the Garfield County Library website, www.gcpld.org. There you can renew books, check out the events calendar, and explore our incredible databases available. Young children will enjoy watching and listening to books with the Tumblebooks database, anyone wanting to learn a new language can access Mango Languages, and those who need auto repair help can take advantage of our subscription to Chilton's online database. The libraries also offer free Wi-Fi so you can go online with your device, even if you don't have a monthly connection plan.

If you are a smartphone user, you can download our brand new app GCPLD 2 Go which has many features of our website in an easy-to-use mobile form.

Have fun playing with your new tech toys. And remember, the libraries are here with great eBooks and help if you need it.

Judy Martens Retires After 30 Years

Judy and members of her family attended her retirement party on November 19th.

In February of 1981, Judy Martens applied for a position as a part-time clerk position at the Rifle Library. When she tells the story she recounts not knowing what she was "getting [herself] into" when she interviewed and had to take a typing test. Luckily for everyone around her, she did indeed get the job. In 1990, Judy became Branch Manager of the library and remained in that position for 21 years. Judy continually learns new techniques and embraces new technologies, and for seven of her years with the libraries she was also the webmaster for the Library District.

When asked to share a few words about Judy, the staff in Rifle had a hard time narrowing it down. Assistant Branch Manager Zee Russell said

New Castle Library Opens April 14th

The New Castle Branch Library will reopen on April 14th with a Grand Re-Opening Ceremony that will start at 10 am. Join us for refreshments and giveaways that day until 2 pm. The new library will feature a beautiful new fireplace and reading area, local history room, teen area, interactive children's area and new community meeting room. There are still donor opportunities at the new library. Contact Kelsy

Been at 625-4270 or by email at kbeen@gcpld.org for more information. The temporary branch next door to Subway and City Market at 820 Castle Valley Blvd. will close on March 24th.

The new library is being designed by Michael Hassig and Brad Zeigel of A4

Architects and is being built by B&H Construction.

The Silt Branch Library will break ground in March 2012 and will open late in 2012. The architect is Paul Tremontozzi of Oz Architecture and the contractor is FCI. The building features an expandable meeting room to accommodate larger events, as well as two study rooms, unique children's and teen spaces, and a plaza between the existing Silt Town Hall and the new library. The plaza will feature 28 concrete "books."

Donors will have an opportunity to name their favorite title and author as part of the installation. Contact Kelsy Been for more information.

The new library in Glenwood Springs at the corner of Cooper Avenue and Eighth Street is wrapping up design development with architect Dennis Humphries of Humphries Polis Architecture and FCI performing the construction. The new library will have a parking structure underneath, and a second floor above owned by Colorado Mountain College (CMC). A second parking structure will be constructed at the corner of 9th and Cooper by the Glenwood Springs Downtown Development Authority and the City of Glenwood Springs. The project calls for a new 14,000 square foot library on the ground floor, a community plaza, and a second floor that will be unfinished, providing future expansion space for the library and CMC. The library will feature terrific children's and teen areas, a quiet reading room with a fireplace, four study rooms and a large community meeting room. The project is slated to break ground in April 2012.

The District hired Willis Pember Architects and Humpries Poli Architecture to design the new library for Carbondale. Currently the project is in design

Book Recommendations from Staff Members

The Magicians

by Lev Grossman

The Magicians is the coming-of-age story of Quentin Coldwater, a self-described nerd who, as a high school senior, is still obsessed with the magical world described in his favorite childhood books. Quentin unexpectedly finds himself at a mysterious college where he discovers that magic is real and there is more to the world than meets the eye.

Since its release, I've been recommending The Magicians to anyone who will listen, describing it as "Harry Potter for grown-ups." Really, though, it's more complex than that. The story is appealing on many different levels, whether you are hooked by the fascinating plotline, the multi-dimensional characters, or the imaginative settings. There are obvious parallels to J. K. Rowling's Harry Potter series and C. S. Lewis' Narnia stories and hints of J. R. R. Tolkien's Middle Earth, L. Frank Baum's Oz, and even Madeleine L'Engle's A Wrinkle in Time. But, I found Grossman's voice to stand apart as smart and very funny. While the influence of those earlier authors was clearly apparent, I often felt that Grossman was not giving a nod to those authors so much as he was giving the reader a cheeky (and sometimes snarky) wink. I highly recommend The Magicians, even if you don't usually read in the fantasy genre.

Bellwether

by Connie Willis

This is a science fiction book for people who might think they don't like sci-fi. While Willis is the winner of many notable science fiction awards, including eleven Hugo Awards and seven Nebula Awards, this book reads like a romantic comedy. Connie is a Colorado author, and this endearing, charming novel takes place in Boulder.

The main character, Sandra Foster, is a scientist in Research and Development at HiTek, a fictional research company. Sandra is plagued by an incompetent, insufferable office assistant named Flip who misdelivers packages, throws months of research in the garbage, and generally causes trouble wherever she goes.

Due to Flip delivering an important package to the wrong office, Sandra meets Dr. O'Reilly, a mysteriously geeky yet charming fellow scientist at HiTek. Dr. O'Reilly is studying information transfer in animals, and his experiment is nearly a complete loss when Flip loses his funding request form. Will Dr. O'Reilly lose his job? Will Dr. O'Reilly and Sandra end up together? Find out in the pages of this charming, funny novel that happens to take place in the world of Science.

development, and we have hosted two community meetings with a third scheduled for January 12th. Special emphasis will be placed on engaging community artisans to contribute to the project.

The new library will be a 13,000 square foot facility at the corner of Sopris and Third Avenue. We hope to break ground by next summer, with a completion date of mid-2013. Currently the project includes an outdoor reading patio, three study rooms, a joint community room/quiet reading area, and special children's area. The Mount Sopris Historical Society is exploring the possibility of creating a time capsule as part of the project. Watch their web site for more information at www.mtsoprishistoricalsociety.org. The project will be bid out for construction in the late spring.

We are committed to providing safe and efficient facilities and are working to ensure that overall operational costs for the District remain low as we expand our facilities to meet the library needs of the future. We are putting special emphasis on green features and energy efficiency. Check out how our new buildings are doing at garfieldenergynavigator.org.

Meet Your Librarian

Karol Sacca
Branch Manager
Parachute Branch

Karol Sacca is an addict...yep, that's right: she's addicted to books, always has been, and always will be she freely admits. A Colorado native, she grew up reading anything the town library had in stock. The love of literature led her to a teaching career and eventually into the school library. Her career there spanned over 30 years. After retiring several years ago, Karol joined the Parachute Branch Library as the manager.

In the past three years she and her team saw the old library completely remodeled and reopened to record breaking business. The library is a showcase for the community, and the community room is in high demand.

Karol and her husband of 44 years, Larry, moved to the Grand Valley over ten years ago when they located some acreage and an old farm house in need of tender loving care. "We bought the place to keep my husband busy, and that it has, with a massive garden and a herd of deer and turkeys that eat everything that is not protected." While at home Karol loves to quilt and is a professional longarm quilter. "Every quilt tells a story and working on them makes me part of that story. I come from a long line of quilters. Both my grandmother and mother were quilters. I happen to mix technology into the art form by adding machine quilting. The hours I spend quilting are times for me to listen to a wide variety of books on tape."

Karol is the mother of two grown daughters: Stephanie, a teacher in Minturn, CO, and Emily, a nurse in Oklahoma. Karol's pride and joy are her four grandchildren who allow her to read aloud many of the books that arrive in the library.

Love books? Need to find that perfect read? Stop in the Parachute Branch Library, and you might find yourself addicted too!

Food or Fines

The libraries are excited to announce the Food for Fines program will return during the month of February. Bring in non-perishable food items to any of the six branch libraries and receive credit on your library card account. For each item you donate you will receive a $1 credit toward overdue fines that are currently on your account (not lost materials or fees).

[ Get rid of your fines
& help others too! ]

All items donated will be given to the local LIFT-UP. Last February there were 3,297 items collected by the libraries!

Check your cupboards or head to the grocery store because this program is the perfect opportunity for you to take care of those pesky fines, while also helping out people in your local community.

"Judy has been the most patient teacher for me at the Rifle Branch Library. She allowed me to ask questions...repeatedly, until the answer stuck in my brain. I have learned so much from her these last 9+ years and it has empowered me to be able to help others!"

Malia Burton, the Library District's Digital Services Librarian said "Judy has been a dedicated coworker that I enjoyed working with, but also a friend, sewing tutor, cooking advisor, and adopted grandmother to my kids. I looked forward to seeing Judy whether I was at work or at the library with my kids for Storytime. For my son, going to the library meant getting hugs from Judy and showing her the books he'd picked out."

Indeed, what has set Judy apart all these years has been her caring and her personal touch. She has given advice on what to read, answered countless questions, and inspired so many. Thank you Judy for all you have done for the people of Rifle, and of Garfield County. We wish you well with your next adventure.

Sunday, January 1st.

Read With Me Week

Read Together and Win Great Prizes

Families can celebrate Read With Me Week by tracking read-aloud sessions from Thursday, February 23rd through Wednesday, February 29th. Sponsored by numerous community organizations, Read With Me Week promotes early childhood literacy throughout Garfield County with fun activities including library Storytimes and special community events for parents and children ages 6 months to 5 years. Families who keep track of their daily read-aloud sessions will be entered in a drawing for prizes such as new books and gift certificates to local retailers and restaurants.

For read-aloud tracking forms visit your local library. For a full schedule of events or more information call Raising A Reader at 970-230-9117 or visit Reach Out and Read's website: www.reachoutandreadco.org.

Get Ready for Discover Earth

The Garfield County Libraries are extremely delighted to announce that the Rifle Branch has been chosen as one of only ten libraries in the nation to host Discover Earth: A Century of Change. The exhibit focuses on earth science topics such as weather, water cycle, and ecosystem changes through interactive multimedia displays that will allow visitors to learn and experience the exhibit in a dynamic way.

The traveling exhibit will be in Rifle from mid-June to mid-August. The library will also be presenting events in conjunction with the exhibit so watch out for more info in the coming months.

Database Spotlight

TumbleBooks are now iCompatible!

TumbleBooks is one of Garfield County Libraries' free electronic resources available on our website. TumbleBooks has hundreds of animated books, complete with voice-overs and music, that you and your child can read along with. This is a fun way to get tiny tots interested in stories and a great tool to help new readers improve their reading skills. The TumbleBook Library includes Story Books for younger kids and TumbleReadables for older kids. Most titles include information on appropriate grade level to help you find a story that's just challenging enough for your young reader. You and your child can browse through subjects like holidays, sports, and adventure, or check out the list of New Books. It's a fun activity to do together, especially on a cold winter day!

through TumbleBooks and TumbleReadables. But now the fine folks at TumbleBooks have produced a selection of titles without the use of Flash, and they're working on even more.

You'll find TumbleBooks and TumbleReadables on our Kids' Fun Stuff page: browse to our website at www.gcpld.org, click on the "Kids" link near the top of any page, then click on the frog. The TumbleBook Library also includes educational games, books in Spanish and French, and the ability to navigate the site in other languages such as Spanish. Like most of the library's databases, TumbleBooks can be accessed at the library or from home with your library card number. To find iPad-compatible titles, click on the red "Story Books" button on the TumbleBooks home page, then click on the green "iPad Books" button near the center at the top of the page. You may also use the TumbleSearch feature to search for "iPad." Whatever type of device you use, we hope you enjoy TumbleBooks and TumbleReadables. Happy Tumbling!

6 If you are an iPad user, we have good news for you: TumbleBooks and TumbleReadables are now available for use on an iPad! iPads cannot play Flash – that is, the computer programming that brings books to life on the small screen

Teen & Tween Spot

Teen Tech Week

Teen Tech Week is a celebration of technology, and all the great ways we can use it. This year's Teen Tech Week lasts March 4th through 10th, and the libraries will be hosting a couple events we hope you enjoy. First, the Gordon Cooper Branch in Carbondale will host "Geek Out @ Your Library" on Wednesday, March 7th at 6 pm. For this program the library has invited high school students to become the teachers so community members can get their computer questions answered, learn to navigate the internet, and discover the joys of social media. Then there will be a Wii Rock Band Tournament in Rifle at 1 pm on Saturday, March 10th. So bring some friends or join a band when you get there, just be prepared to rock!

If you are interested for more ways to enjoy Teen Tech Week see if you can complete this Top 10 List:

1. Download an ebook or audiobook from the library.
2. Visit the library's webpage.
3. Check out the library's new mobile app GCPLD 2 GO for your phone.
4. Blog about a library book or program.
5. Create a book trailer for your favorite book and if you want to share it email it to gcpldadmin@gcpld.org.
6. Ask your librarian to recommend a nonfiction book on an area of technology that interests you.
7. Many young adult authors welcome email from their readers. Many have their own websites, blogs, and Twitter/Facebook accounts. Why not send them a message in honor of Teen Tech Week?
8. Check out some video games, DVDs, or CDs from your library.
9. Review a book, movie, or CD on the library's catalog.
10. Download a newspaper article from the day you were born from an electronic database.

Literacy Outreach

Changing lives one word at a time.

New Year's Resolutions

What is your New Year's Resolution? Lose weight, quit smoking, exercise more, read a book a week, make a difference in the world? The start of a New Year has always been a time for looking back to the past, and more importantly, forward to the coming year. It's a time to reflect on the changes we want to make and resolve to follow through on those changes.

Many of us start the year with the best of intentions determined to start fresh. Literacy Outreach learners want to improve their lives by increasing their literacy skills. Energized and invigorated with a sense of hope from the start of a new year, they register to learn to read, write, compute basic math or speak English. Then they wait. Determined to improve their lives, sometimes learners wait as long as one year for the opportunity to work with a volunteer tutor. Waiting too long can make all good intentions go away.

Why is adult literacy important? According to the National Coalition for Literacy, literacy skills impact every aspect of adult life. Adults who are more literate are more likely to: read to their children and discuss school topics; be employed full time and receive a higher income; use the Internet and email; vote, volunteer, and access information about current local and national events.

Resolving to make a difference in the world is a noble New Year's resolution, and volunteering is a wonderful way to make it happen. The rewards for volunteering are endless. Volunteering is a great way to make friends, develop useful new skills, impact others well being, and gain experience that help develop your career. It is also extremely satisfying.

Volunteers are needed to make a difference in the life of an adult learner and their families this year. Would you like to make a difference? You can. Learn more about the rewards and requirements for volunteering with Literacy Outreach. An information session will be held January 3 at 10:00 a.m. at the Parachute Branch Library. Another session will be held on the same day at 5:30 p.m. at the Glenwood Springs Branch Library.

What is your New Year's resolution? Make a difference this year by sharing the gift of reading. The need has never been greater. Please help by volunteering or donating.
